Who are we?

Since 2013, we have been dedicated to supplying frontline professionals with high quality body armor and ballistic helmets to protect those who protect us. We only use the best materials from the world's leading manufacturers. Each product we offer is crafted with precision and care, utilizing materials that undergo rigorous testing to guarantee protection against the most advanced threats. We understand the critical importance of reliability in protective gear, which is why every component is meticulously selected and tested to meet the highest safety standards. Our products are designed to provide maximum protection and durability, giving professionals the confidence they need in high risk environments. By focusing on quality and innovation, we continue to deliver best possible protection for those who protect us.

Our company history

Protection Group Denmark (PGD) was founded in 2013 by Jonas Olesen with a clear mission: to create high-quality protective gear that is both reliable and affordable.

Our company emerged from Olesen's personal frustration with the existing market, where he found that available protective products were often overpriced, uncomfortable, or failed to offer adequate safety. Determined to fill this gap in the market, Olesen dedicated himself to researching and developing a product that would meet his high standards. His efforts led to the creation of a bulletproof vest that combined superior protection, comfort, and cost-effectiveness. This initial success laid the groundwork for PGD's mission of delivering high quality protective equipment.

Since our founding, we have experienced substantial growth, becoming a recognized and trusted provider in the personal protection industry. PGD operates from two primary locations within the European Union: a 1400 m<sup>2</sup> facility in Randers, Denmark, staffed by 9 employees, and a 500 m<sup>2</sup> facility in Bulgaria, where 12 employees are based. These sites are central to our production and development efforts, allowing us to uphold our commitment to high-quality standards while efficiently meeting the rising demand for our products.

Made in Europe

Danish quality is synonymous with precision, reliability, and attention to detail, and here at Protection Group Denmark we embody these values in every product we create. We focus on using premium materials and cutting-edge technology which results in products that exceed international safety standards. This dedication to excellence reflects Denmark's tradition of producing high-quality, durable, and innovative solutions in various industries.

Precision, reliability and attention to detail are values we embody in every single product we create. Our modern ISO 9001:2015 certified manufacturing facilities are a testament to our commitment to Danish quality.

All of our soft armor solutions are manufactured at our in-house facility equipped with advanced technology and machinery. Our specialisation is a result of many years of research experience and production.

We can design and manufacture soft armor solutions to comply with any bullet proof standard (HOSDB, VPAM, German Schutzklasse, Swedish BYA). Manufactured according to strictly international requirements, our soft armor is designed to stop either bullets, stabs or both in a multi-threat solution. We maintain a strict quality control during the entire production process to guarantee that our soft armor exceeds standards for safety, comfort and durability.
